DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Luo in view of Raney et al. Claims are unpatentable for the same reasons set forth on pages 2-3 in the previous office action.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 08-19-05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. It should be noted that Luo teaches the basic torch, as claimed, but does not teach combining multiple torch elements into an integral element for ease of parts replacement. As set forth in column 7 in Raney in the prior rejection, the electrode, tip/nozzle and skirt/cup can be nested and connected to the torch as an assembly. Raney et al teach that combining of torch parts into integral components is beneficial. It is clear that since Luo teaches the basic torch structure claimed in the instant invention, and since Raney et al teach as specified above that combining multiple torch elements into larger integral components is beneficial, the Examiner submits that one of ordinary skill in the art would find it well within that level of ordinary skill to combine multiple torch components into integral ones. Applicant sets forth that no motivation exists for such modifications. The Examiner believes proper motivation is taught by Raney et al, to enable the references as combined, as proper. For the reasons set forth above and in the prior office action, the rejection of the claims is proper. Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
